

TUESDAY AUGUST 25. 1743.

Lisbon, July 23.

THE Court hath receiv'd the News of the Death of Don Lewis de Menes, Marquis of Laurical, and Viceroy of the Indies. It is scarce possible to conceive how much this Nobleman is regretted, on Account of his many Virtues, and the Services he did to the Crown. He was, indeed, in Respects a most extraordinary Man, and as worthy a subject as ever any Prince enjoyed. His Birth was render'd illustrious by a Series of Noble Ancestors, on whom reflects Honour by the Lustre of his great Achievements. He distinguished himself, when a very young Man, by his Military Accomplishments. At the Age of twenty-seven he rais'd the Blockade of Evora, by throwing himself into it with a Detachment of 500 Grenadiers; this was in the Year 1712; and the other Services he render'd in that War, having sufficiently approv'd his Abilities, he was rais'd to the high Dignity Viceroy of the Indies in 1717, tho' he was then but turn'd of Thirty-one. He had many Difficulties to struggle with, when he was advanced to that Post. He began his Administration with correcting Errors in the Government at Home, and when he had extinguish'd all of those bad Customs, which thro' the Corruption of the Times, and the Avarice of former Governors, prevail'd in Goa, he then attack'd some of the Princes who had broke their Treaties with the Portuguese, and not contented with Robberies at Land, turn'd Pyrates also, and committed great Depredations by Sea. The Viceroy, therefore, wisely resolv'd to revive the ancient Reputation of the Portuguese in all Affairs, and having fitted out a considerable Squadron, he thrice defeated the Maritime Power of these piratical Princes, and, at last, totally destroy'd it; when Time of his Government was expired, he embark'd board a Merchant Ship, in order to return to Lisbon; in his Passage, he had the Misfortune to be taken by Pirates, who set him on Shore on the Isle of Bourbon, whence he found Means to get Home on board an India Ship. When Things were in the worst Situation possible in those Parts, he was again thought of the only Person fit to retrieve them. Accordingly, in 1740, he was sent a second Time Viceroy of the Indies, when scarce the City of Goa remained, which was to be the Seat of his Government. He signaliz'd his Arrival by the Conquest of the Province of Bradeis, and the Neighbouring Princes to renounce the Conspiracy they had form'd against the Crown of Portugal, to become again its Tributaries. A very little before his Death, he had Intelligence that the King of Maratha was marching with a numerous Army to attack Goa, and that the King of Simde, contrary to Faith of Treaties, had suffer'd him to march thro' the Passes of his Country, in order to facilitate the surprize; from which they hop'd no less, than the Destruction of the Portuguese Power in the Indies. At this critical Juncture arriv'd Don Antonio de Albuquerque, with a Squadron of three Men of War, and a considerable Body of Troops on board. The Viceroy immediately order'd the General Don Manuel de Albuquerque, to march with 600 Foot, and 130 Grenadiers, to surprize the Enemy as they lay encamp'd under the shadow of Singum; which that General perform'd with unexpected Success, by posting himself in such a manner, as to render it impossible for their Cavalry to support their Foot. He first attack'd the City, and took it by Storm in three Hours time; after which, he march'd upon the Enemy, routed them entirely, made himself Master of their Baggage and Ammunition, took 10 Elephants, all the Royal Equipage, with the King Maratha himself, and 42 Officers of Distinction, and the most of their Foot Prisoners of War. Not satisfied with this, he next fell upon the Cavalry, of whom he took 700, with an immense Booty; and, amongst rest, 5000 fat Oxen. The 5th Part of these belong'd to the Viceroy, by his Prerogative, his Excellency sent a Present of them to the Inhabitants of the Province of Bradeis, who were in great want of such a supply. This Victory was attended with the Surrender of the strong Cities of Ponda and Lupini, which were immediately demolish'd. The Viceroy had the News of this last Victory but a few Hours before his Death. A Circumstance that adds not a little to the Glory of this worthy Person, that after having enjoy'd so long an Office, he died without leaving so much as to bury him; for such was his Disinterestedness, that he thought Money levied on the Publick, ought to be expended only for the publick Service. The before-mentioned General Velho, and Don Antonio de Albuquerque, Intendant of the Finances, perform'd their last Duties to him, and caus'd him to be interr'd with a Magnificence suitable to his Quality, and worthy of his Virtues.

Dresden, August 18. A Report prevail's here, that, besides the Grand Alliance between Russia, Poland, and Sweden, which is said to be as good as concluded, there is another Treaty on Foot between our Sovereign, as Elector of Saxony and the Czarina, by which they stipulate a joint Assistance to the Queen of Hungary, as well as the mutual Guaranty of their respective Dominions and Pretensions; that is to say, his Majesty Guarantees the Succession, as it is at present settled at Muscovy; and the Empress of Russia, the Eventual Succession of his Polish Majesty to the Dominions of the House of Austria, in case of the Failure of the Male Line of the reigning Family. It is certain, that the King of Prussia has demand'd a Passage for a large Body of Troops through Lusatia, which are to march into Bohemia; but People are much divided in their Sentiments as to the Intent of their March; for some believe, they will act as Auxiliaries to the Queen of Hungary, and others are quite of a contrary Sentiment. We fancy here, that Prince Charles of Lorraine has delay'd passing the Rhine, till the Intention of his Prussian Majesty can be certainly known.

IRELAND.

Dublin, August 13. We hear from Curraghmore, in the County of Waterford, that on the 10th Instant, Edward Cary, Esq; Knight of the Shire for the County of Londonderry, was married to the Hon. Miss Jane Berilford, Daughter to the Right Hon. Lord Viscount Tyrone, an agreeable Lady with a large Fortune.

Last Wednesday the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, attended by the Sheriffs, Aldermen, Common Council, &c. went to the Black Rock, and threw a Dart into the Sea, to preserve the Liberties of the City, and afterwards had the Sword carried through Clonskeagh, Miltown, St. Kevin's Port, and other Parts bordering on St. Stephen's Liberty. And,

Thursday Morning his Lordship went in the usual Form to St. Stephen's Green, where the several Corporations met him, and attended him to St. James's Street, from whence they rode the Franchises through the City to the Strand, and made a beautiful and grand Appearance; many Corporations vying with each other for Richness of Dress, Horses, Furniture, &c.

The same Afternoon there was a great Quarrel on Ormond Key, between the Liberty and Ormond Boys, in which two Persons were killed, and several others dangerously wounded; Six of whom were sent to the Charitable Infirmary, three of which are given over, and the others in a desperate Way.

Last Tuesday Evening, the Right Hon. the Lord Limerick, and several other Persons of Distinction, arriv'd here from England.

Dublin, August 16. Last Wednesday one Magrane, a Farmer, was drown'd in crossing a Ford near the Iron Mills above Chapel-Ized; his Wife, who was behind him, was saved by catching hold of the Footstool of the Pillion.

Dublin, August 16. We hear from Castlebar, that last Thursday were executed there, Laughlin and John Doran, Brothers, two notorious Robbers of the Kellymount Gang, who committed many Robberies since they were proclaimed. Before they were led out to Execution, they made a Discovery of several Accomplices, Harbourners, and Abettors, being the only Satisfaction, they said, then in their Power to give the Publick; but it is as yet kept secret.

On Saturday last a poor labouring Man was found in the Liffy, near Usher's Quay; he had in one of his Hands some Money, his Wrist was cut across, and had several Cuts and Bruises in his Head, &c. by which Marks of Violence, 'tis suppos'd he was murdered.
